

Chief Inspector Darren Alderson
South Cambridgeshire Area Commander

Creating a safer
Cambridgeshire

Wednesday, December 16th, 2011

Dear N.H.W. Coordinator,

I am writing to introduce myself as the new police Commander for South Cambridgeshire. I took up my position as of December 5th moving into, what is in fact a new role, which passes command of all police resource deployed in South Cambridgeshire to myself. I am delighted to be taking up the post as I have an affinity with the area having worked here on several occasions over my 22 years of policing career.

The wider Constabulary is undergoing some restructuring at this time. Chief Superintendent Rob Needle who I am sure you are very familiar with retires at the end of December; the restructuring will see Chief Superintendent Andy Hebb taking on responsibility for delivery of local policing across the entire county of Cambridgeshire.

It is a timely opportunity for me to take a moment to also introduce my command team; I am very pleased that Inspector Chris Savage has remained with us, taking the role of uniform and partnership inspector. Detective Inspector Ian Simmons joins us taking the lead on Crime. Together we create a strong team with a wide range of policing skills and experiences, I intend to maximise our skills for the good of our communities.

I know that I speak for my whole management team in saying that we are looking forward to getting out and meeting people and gaining a good understanding of the priorities of the people of South Cambridgeshire. I hope that we will soon meet at one of the many partnership meetings I attend. However, in the mean time if I can be of any assistance please do not hesitate to contact me or one of my team.

Yours Sincerely

Chief Inspector Darren Alderson
South Cambridgeshire Area Commander
